NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The huge sum of $22,000,000,000 is not large enough to include all the corporations to which the 'influence' of the three allies (J. P. Morgan & Company, and the National City and First National banks) extends," says Louis
D. Brandeis, in the second of a series of articles on the money trust, which will appear in Harper's Weekly tomorrow, under the caption "How the Combiners Combine."

"The leading exploits in combination of J. P. Morgan & Company," Brandeis says, "have long been known; but the part played by their allies, was not fully disclosed until Mr. Samuel Untermyer developed the facts before the Pujo committee."

"Among the allies, two New York banks, the National City and the First National, stand pre-eminent.
They constitute, with the Morgan firm the inner group of the money trust. Each of the two banks, like Morgan & Company, has huge resources. Each of the two banks, like J. P. Morgan & Company, has been dominated by a genius in combination. In the National City it is James Stillman; in the First National, George F. Baker."

GOVERNMENT SEEKS VIOLATOR OF LAW

Alderman Torrance Turns Anonymous Letter Over to Postal Authorities Here

PENALTY FOR VIOLATION HEAVY

Sender of Epistle May Get Year in Fort Leavenworth; Is One of Series Received

William Torrance, alderman from the Sixth ward and for two years mayor of the city, today turned over to the postal authorities an anonymous letter sent to him by a citizen who signs himself, "Taxpayer, Third Ward," in which serious charges are made.

The letter, received yesterday by Mr. Torrance, is one of a series of anonymous communications that have poured in upon the alderman since his advent into the council.

Mr. Torrance has been active in the various contests that have featured the council's work since his election and it is to his strenuous work for or against various measures that he attributes attacks by the unknown letter writer.

"Ordinarily," said the alderman today, "I pay no attention to anonymous letters. In the past they have been criticisms of my views on various matters, but beyond the annoyance of getting communications from people who lack the moral courage to state their convictions openly I paid no attention to them."

"The letter received yesterday, however, went beyond the limit of endurance and contained charges that cannot be passed over lightly.
That is why I have turned the communication over to the government authorities."

"The penalty for sending anonymous letters through the mails is heavy and ranges from a big fine to imprisonment in the federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kas.
The local postal authorities will immediately start on the case, it is understood, and the letter has been placed in the hands of the post office inspector for this district."

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 25.—"I never knew until they put me in prison that women folks had any rights. I've learned a lot of things that make life seem different than it did before they said they were going to hang me."

Mrs. Bessie Wakefield, the "woman who never had a chance," the woman upon whom twelve men jurors and a man judge fastened the sentence of being "hanged by the neck until you are dead," breathed into her mother's ears for the first time yesterday that awakened consciousness of the woman she might have been. Her arms about her mother's neck, this twenty-four year old child of poverty, reared in ignorance, betrayed and married in shame and degradation, poured forth the hope that through her own sex at last some ray of hope may yet come into her life.

Clinging timidly to the blue and white checked prison garb of her mother, four year old Clara Belle Wakefield looked with dimly comprehending eyes upon the two women weeping before her. On the other side of the ever present guard for even with the brushing of the black angel's wings in the shadow of the gallows, mother and daughter could not speak in private of the things nearest their tortured hearts; six year old George Wakefield fidged beside his grandfather, Frank Webster.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 25.

Ruth Steel, 19 years old, has gone back to her mountain home on Paint creek to die and the man whom she charges with being to blame for her plight, George Jordan, Charleston business man, today faces a long term behind prison bars. A jury in federal court, after deliberating all night, returned a verdict today finding Jordan guilty of violation of the Mann white slave law, in transporting Ruth Steele from Ironton, Ohio, to this city, and placing her in a resort run by Rebecca Robinson.

Jordan may be sent to prison for five years, or be fined $1,000 or both.

The girl, whose pitiful story told to the jury as she lay propped up in an invalid's chair, the pallor of death overspreading her once pretty features, is believed to have been the principal cause of Jordan's conviction, was taken back home on a cot this morning. Her death from bi-chloride of mercury poisoning, which she took, she says, when she could no longer stand the hounding and threats of Jordan, is only a matter of days, physicians said today.

HONOR SYSTEM SUCCESS

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 25.—Advocates of the honor system which has just been voted in effect by the students of the university of Wisconsin, are already rejoicing over early evidences of its success. A number of popular professors tried out the plan.
They quietly passed out the blue books, explained the question as usual, announced they had work elsewhere, and left the room to the students. One professor went so far as to hand back some corrected exercises which contained material that would have been of assistance in the examination, and neither by this or other temptations was the spirit of the new rule violated, according to reports.

SALZAR TRAPPED WITH 2,000

Attempt Being Made to Capture General Alive for Execution at Juarez

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 25.—Having repulsed the Mexican federal forces of Generals Salazar and Orozco, General "Pancho" Villa's constitutional forces early today were following up an advantage gained in a battle at Tierra Blanca last night.

At 6 o'clock this morning it was estimated that, as the result of the seven hour battle which began at 5 p. m. yesterday, fifteen miles below Juarez, Villa had captured two federal trains, a number of prisoners and a quantity of supplies, and that his losses were 100 dead and 200 wounded. That the federal slain will greatly exceed the rebel loss is stated at Juarez, although it is impossible to get any accurate figures.

Resume at 6 A. M.

After a long lull beginning at 2 a. m., during which both sides improved their positions, the battle was resumed at 6 a. m. Villa took the offensive, training his artillery on a federal train which the federals surrounded during the night. Fighting was general all along the line.

Salazar Escapes

Although the issue of the great battle being fought south of Juarez had not been settled at noon today, fighting was of a desperate character and all the advantage seemed to be with the rebel forces under General "Pancho" Villa.

The battle center shifted during this morning, however, from General Villa's personal headquarters at Tierra Blanca, to a point near Zaragoza where General Salazar, the federal commander, for hours was compelled to fight a superior force to prevent annihilation of his division.
Only the timely arrival of reinforcements saved him. As soon as Villa

FORM PLANS FOR SEAL CAMPAIGN

Sale of Christmas Stamps to Be Conducted Along the Same Lines as in Former Years

Committees formulating plans for the 1913 Red Cross Christmas seal campaign of the Wisconsin anti-tuberculosis society in La Crosse met yesterday afternoon at the La Crosse club.

It was agreed to conduct the campaign along lines similar to those of last year. Business firms and professional men will be solicited to support the movement by purchasing seals and using them on letters, checks, bills, etc.

Under the management of Thurston Owens, manager of the La Crosse Gas and Electric company, an active cavass will begin at once. Mr. Owens will solicit the manufacturing houses, and N. M. Scott the retail merchants of the city.

As in the past, the campaign will also be conducted in the schools, the post office and the hospitals.

A special effort is being made to push the sale of the seals in the stores throughout the city. Practically all of the stores of the city will have them on sale.

Those backing the plan this year, are emphasizing the need of the seals being used, as well as purchased.

The real benefit of the plan, they say is not only in the proceeds of the sale of the seals. It is also important that people catch the importance of pasting the seals on letters and packages so that the anti-tuberculosis idea will penetrate all parts of the country.

A number of retail firms of the city have agreed to use the seals during Christmas on their employees checks. They believe that the seals have an educational value.

PLAN NAVAL SCHOOL

CHINESE REPUBLIC INTENDS TO ESTABLISH SEA COLLEGE WHICH WILL BE UNDER ENGLISH OFFICERS

SHANGHAI, Nov. 24.—In preparation for the arrival of Captain Harold Christian of the British navy, who has been loaned China for a period of three years, Chinese government experts today are looking over Nimrod Sound near here in search of a site for a new naval college. The government has naval training schools at Tien Tsin, Nanking and Canton, established under the monarchy, but the proposed college will be much more comprehensive and modern. The minister of the navy hopes to develop it, with Captain Christian's aid, into a national institution. The training schools at Nanking, Canton and Tien Tsin will not be discontinued for the present, and they may be retained permanently as feeders to the proposed college. Correlative with the naval college and the training school courses, will be actual service at sea. A number of up to date training ships for this purpose will be added from time to time to those now in use.

Captain Christian is one of the best known officers not of admiralty rank in the British navy. He is commander of the Hannibal. He will be assisted as director of the new naval college by several instructors in various naval branches. They, too, will be drafted from the British navy and are expected to leave shortly with Captain Christian.

GIN FOR THE KIDNEYS

Gin is one of the oldest known remedies for kidney and bladder troubles, especially when used in the following formula: "Six ounces good pure gin; half ounce fluid extract Buchu; half ounce Murax compound. Any druggist can supply or mix these ingredients. Shake well each time and take in doses of one to two, teaspoonfuls after meals."

This is the most effective remedy known for the quick relief of kidney and bladder disorders. Such symptoms as backache, frequent or highly colored urine, rheumatic pains in the groin ought to have prompt attention to prevent Bright's disease or diabetes.

Local pharmacists say this has had a great demand for the past 5 years. Published by the Standard Chemical Co. Laboratories of Chicago, Ill.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

Her Disloyal Brother

By LAWRENCE ALFRED CLAY
(Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The town of Somers had decided on certain public improvements that called for the services of a civil engineer, and young Robert Delray was sent down from the city by his firm.

On the first day of his arrival at Somers Mr. Delray saw a good-looking girl on the street.

On the second day he saw the same good-looking girl horseback riding.

On the third day he saw her at the postoffice in company with a youth he guessed was her brother.

On the fourth day, as he sat on the inn veranda, the same youth appeared and took a chair and saluted with:

"Well, what do you think of us, old man?"

He was a lad of about sixteen. He had the swell-head, and he had it bad. He had just returned from Chicago after a stay of three days, and he felt and looked blasé. Nothing wicked in Chicago had escaped him!

"I think it a rather nice town," was the reply to his question.

"Yes, pretty fair!"

The engineer was only twenty-three years old, but he had met three or four youths like the one before him—a baby in innocence, but wishing to be thought a man in sin.

"We have some good looking girls in this town," the boy went on after a bit.

"Yes?"

"Are you going into society while here?"

"I hardly think so."

"You've got the personal appearance, and I guess you've got the rhino to back you up. If you happen to see a young lady you think you'd like to know just give me the wink and I can bring about an introduction."

"You are very kind."

"Are you of a romantic turn?"

"Perhaps I have my share."

"Good! Every good-looking girl in Somers is romantic. They say that's why so many of them flirt with drummers. They hope to find a lord or a count among them some day."

"I shall call upon you when I want help," said the engineer.

"Do so, old man. I shall be yours to command."

Young Mr. Delray was indeed romantic, but when he discovered the fact, the next day after his talk with the youth, he was more than surprised. He had never been in love. He had not considered matrimony. He had a bowing acquaintance only with a few young ladies. He was spoken of by his friends as a steady young man who would likely turn out an old bachelor. He was at the postoffice when that young lady came in, and he had a good look at her.

Romans begin with admiration. Mr. Delray admired. Romance turns to love after one has admired a certain length of time. The length may be ten minutes or six weeks. Whatever it was to be in this case, the young man could not wait to find out. He had to be back on his job. However, he went realizing that his fate was sealed. Seeing a young lady in the postoffice twice doesn't always arouse romance and lead to admiration and love, but there might have been, and probably was, some peculiar influence surrounding the Somers office. According to the rules laid down in "Who is What?" and other authorities, a young man should not fall in love with a girl until he at least knows her name. The name was supplied the next day when the gilded youth called on the engineer to say:

"You must pardon me, old man, but I did not introduce myself the other day. Name is Ashley—Bob Ashley."

"And mine is Delray," was the reply.

"I have taken a strong liking to you, and I want to make your stay pleasant. It can't be pleasant unless you have society."

"No."

"And you can't get into society very well unless you are romantic. I mean the society of the young people. Of course, you can sit around with the old folks, no matter how bumpish you are, but there is no fun in that. It's too jolly bad that you are not romantic."

"But I am," replied the engineer.

"But the other day you seemed to doubt it."

"I did, but something has happened to make me change my mind. I now find myself chuck full of romance."

"That's bully. That makes it easy! I'll have you swimming on the top wave in another week if you'll put yourself in my hands."

"I am inclined to do so, but—"

"Oh, you can trust me not to get you into a humiliating position. I shall arrange for you to make the acquaintance of one particular young lady, and when that is done society will admit you. It must be done romantically, however."

"Must I stop a runaway horse and save her life?" laughed Mr. Delray.

"Just leave it all to me. Permit me to manage."

The youth was silly, and yet he was quaint. He seemed to be talking nonsense, and yet he seemed very much in earnest. The engineer couldn't quite size him up.

If the name of the boy was Ashley, then the name of his sister was the same. An inquiry or two brought the information that the Ashleys were among the aristocrats and wealthy. As for Miss Claire Ashley—hadn't his eyes beheld her?

The public improvement at Somers was a canal from the river to a valley a mile away to draw off the extra water in flood time. In the center of the millpond was a small island, and on this the engineer had his office in a rough shanty. He kept a boat to ferry himself to and fro. From his island he could see for half a mile up and down the pond. There was good fishing there, and boats were out almost every day.

Young Bob Ashley hadn't been seen by the engineer for four days. He had been scheming and coaxing and arguing with his sister Claire. He wanted to go fishing, and he wanted her to go along. She had never been in a rowboat, and she declined. She had never fished, and she didn't want to.

"I'll have to go or you will never stop pestering!" exclaimed the sister at last; and the persistent Bob had won his point.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the engineer sat before an open window in his shanty office as a rowboat passed within thirty feet of him. It held Bob and his sister. She was looking the other way, but he wasn't. He looked young Delray in the eyes and gave him a wink and a nod. Sometimes a wink and a nod can be perfectly understood, and sometimes they simply mystify.

What did Bob's wink and nod mean? If he had anything to communicate why didn't he call out?

The engineer wasn't mystified over sixty seconds. Bob lost an oar and stood up and reached for it, and the skiff upset. He shouted and his sister screamed. Fifty people saw the accident, but they were on the river bank and had no boats. Just about twenty seconds had passed when the engineer was in his skiff and pulling to the rescue.

"Don't faint, sis!" admonished Bob as he got an arm around his sister to support her.

"But—but we shall be d-drown-ed!" she spluttered.

"Not unless we are swept over the dam, and I think Mr. Delray will reach us in time to prevent that. Just watch his strokes. He fully realizes our awful peril, and that but for him we must be lost. He comes! He will make it! We are saved! Hear the cheers for his heroic work!"

And what came after was the usual program. Mr. Delray was thanked and thanked and invited to call. He was a hero. No girl heart free was ever more than two minutes admiring a hero, and never more than two weeks in ascertaining whether or not he was engaged.

Just how long it was before it was known that Mr. Delray and Miss Claire Ashley were engaged has nothing to do with the case. It was about that time, however, when the sister walked up to Bob and asked:

"Young man, when we were clinging to the boat that day, didn't you say that if we went over the dam we should surely be drowned?"

"Such was my remark," was the reply.

"But there wasn't a drop of water running over the dam!"

"No."

"And you lied to me, sir!"

"And if I hadn't would you now be engaged to the best feller in seven states?"

Bunny Wanted to See the World.

Daddy's Bedtime

The Lesson
Story—Bunny Rabbit Learned.

JACK and Evelyn heard daddy coming up the stairs and thought they would pretend they were asleep, so they jumped into their beds, and when daddy walked into the nursery there they were apparently asleep. "Booh!" said Jack, sitting straight up in bed. "Booh!" echoed Evelyn. "Oh, dear," said daddy; "I thought, of course, you were asleep!" "No, indeed!" they both answered together. "We are all ready for our story."

"Once upon a time," began daddy, "there were three little rabbits, a daddy rabbit, a mother rabbit and their little Bunny. Now, Bunny was very old for his age—or at least he thought he was—and when Daddy and Mother Rabbit would go out in search of food Bunny would leave his little bed, which was in a hole hidden by leaves, and go out 'to see the world,' as he called it.

"One day daddy and mother had both gone out, and before they left they told Bunny to be sure not to leave his little home, for they had heard from some of the other animals that an awful fox had moved to their neighborhood and the night before had eaten up all of Mr. Jack Rabbit's children.

"But Bunny wasn't afraid of anything. He had never seen a fox, and he thought it would be lots of fun to go exploring, and if he should see Mr. Fox he would hide and be perfectly safe.

"He started out toward the river that was at the foot of the bank where he lived. He had not gone very far when he saw bounding through the woods straight for him an awful looking creature with a great long face, and, frightened almost out of his poor little wits, he thought, 'Oh, dear; that's Mr. Fox, and he'll eat me up!' Bunny turned and ran as fast as his wee legs would carry him, not daring to look around.

"Bang, bang!" sounded through the woods. Bunny was so frightened he thought, of course, he was killed and was very much surprised to find he was still running. He kept on and on, not knowing that the 'Bang, bang' had killed Mr. Fox. Then, very tired, he started slowly for home. He felt very tired and not at all like the brave Bunny who had gone out a few hours before. He reached home before his Daddy and Mother Rabbit, and when they came back they found him in his little bed looking very sleepy.

"He didn't say anything to them about his little trip. He hoped very much they would not find out about it.

"Just before Bunny fell asleep he heard Daddy Rabbit telling Mother Rabbit that Farmer Jones had succeeded in shooting Mr. Fox that afternoon, as Mr. Fox had been stealing Farmer Jones' sheep. Bunny then knew that was what the 'Bang, bang' meant, and he firmly decided he would never go into the world alone again until he really became a big rabbit."

SLEEP DISTURBING BLADDER WEAKNESS BACKACHE AND RHEUMATISM VANISH

Even Most Chronic Sufferers Find Quick Relief.

A few doses of Croxone never fail to relieve such troubles, because it cleans out the clogged up, inactive organs, and makes them work properly. It soaks right into the kidney, cleans out the little filtering cells and glands; neutralizes the urine so it no longer irritates the tender membranes of the bladder; dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles, and scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism, and cleans out and strengthens the lifeless kidneys so they can filter, and sift the poison from the blood, and drive it out of the system.

So sure—so positive—so quick and lasting are the results obtained from Croxone, that three doses a day for a few days, are often all that is required to end the worst backache, regulate the most annoying bladder disorders, and put the kidneys in healthy, active condition.

It is practically impossible to take this quick-acting, effective preparation, without results.

An original package costs but a trifle and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if Croxone fails to promptly give desired results, regardless of how old you are or how long you have suffered.

A THOUGHT FOR THANKSGIVING WEEK

No one can bring any new argument to bear in the campaign for giving Christmas shopping early. For some years this has been presented to the public as a thing that thoughtful persons do for their own advantage in escaping the worst crowds, the reduced choice of purchase and the danger of being too late that come from buying gifts in the last few days before Christmas. Appeals have been made to the human kindness of men and women not to put too much strain on those who are behind the counters. If shipwreck or some other great catastrophe should subject a few hundred persons to the extreme weariness, the utter exhaustion, in many cases the actual loss of health which Christmas brings to thousands of men and women, boys and girls, the few would have a nation's sympathy. Christmas means joy to most people. It ought to mean joy to all, and it is the belief of Christendom that when it does, the world will be a vastly better place. The plea for early shopping is a plea that the happy people shall not be thoughtless, that they shall not make the Christmas season a nightmare to thousands whom they would not deliberately injure. The only way to shop early is to shop immediately. This is Thanksgiving week. Is it a worth while thought to give others something to be thankful for by shopping early, by beginning now?—Milwaukee Journal.

ENTRENCHMENT OF RETRENCHMENT FALLS

Some of our retrenchments-for-politics-only friends who have had much to say about the financial condition of this great and adventurous state of Wisconsin (which is being copied by states and nation) may have been interested in the item which recently we published showing that there is a deficit in the Illinois state treasury much larger than that which, in Wisconsin, is the result of a political governor having remitted a large amount of taxes on the eve of an election in which he was a candidate before the people.

We now call their attention to the financial status of the state government in Minnesota. We quote the following item of news from the Minneapolis Tribune:

"The state treasurer has borrowed $1,551,592.68 from Minneapolis and St. Paul banks to meet demands on the state aid funds for high and rural schools. Checks totaling that amount were sent to the various school districts.

"For this money the state will pay 5 per cent, or a total for the loan of about $15,000. W. G. Smith, the treasurer, said that he thought he could pull through the year with about $600,000 additional, which will make the interest amount to about $20,000. Last year the state paid nearly $55,000 for the privilege of borrowing money."

At least, then, our political finance experts will admit that we are no worse off than Illinois, and much better off than Minnesota. For Wisconsin has borrowed no money at liberal interest, while prior to the McGovern regime its state taxes have repeatedly and legitimately been remitted.

Another question has come up. After the House of Representatives had voted to purchase a lavaliere as a wedding present for the president's daughter, how many members sneaked a look at the dictionary to find out what it was?

That sound of distant geyser is undoubtedly Yuan Shai Kai chuck-ling to himself because he has no big sister republic to the north of him.

Why shouldn't the senators want congress to adjourn? By going home they can collect all that government mileage.

No investigation is necessary to convince visitors in New York that the taxicab drivers there are Tammany men.

You Don't Know the Fish
An Irishman was fishing in a river when it began to rain heavily. Pat, not desiring to get soaked through,
sought shelter under a railway bridge spanning the river, and here he plied his rod with true Walcottian zeal, utterly regardless of the trains that fu-cussantly thundered to and fro overhead. Presently another individual appeared on the scene and politely asked Pat what he was doing. "Fishing," was the laconic retort. The stranger laughed. "Pray, what is the use of fishing under the bridge while such an infernal noise continues?" "Oh, shut up, man," replied Pat indignantly. "You don't know the fish. They'll come under here to get out of the rain!"

Must Have Been Cold
Two men were disputing as to which had experienced the greatest cold in winter. Said one:—"In the part of Iceland where I was last summer the ground is frozen so hard all the year round that when they want to bury a man they just sharpen his feet and drive him in with a pile hammer." The other replied: "Yes, I know that place. Didn't stay long —found it not bracing enough for me. Went on to a small town further north. The hotel where I was staying caught fire. My room was on the top story. Staircases burned away. Luckily kept my presence of mind. Emptied my bath out of the window and slid down the icicle."

Hadn't Spoiled the Paper
"Everything seems to be going wrong!" sighed the poet. "I asked the maid at my lodgings this morning what had become of the paper that I'd left lying on my desk."
"Oh, sir," she said, "I thought it was waste paper and I threw it in the waste basket."
"No," said I, "it wasn't waste paper. I hadn't written anything on it yet."—Youth's Companion.

A Natural Reply
"I've described my symptoms thoroughly, haven't I, doctor?" the patient asked.
"You certainly have," replied the doctor; "and I will give you something for your pains."—Lippincott's Magazine.

The Movies
Why travel abroad at enormous expense,
Through the capitals gay and the jungles so dense?
You can see the whole thing for the sum of five cents
In the movies.

You can travel to France and to Italy fair,
You can gaze upon kings and upon beauties rare
And never get out of your easy chair,
In the movies.

You can take all your sisters and cousins and aunts,
You can take all your children and give them a chance To see all the wonders of earth at a glance,
In the movies.

With no train fare to pay and no
porter to tip,
No wrecks and no cinders, no trunk and no grip,
There is plenty of class to a far-away trip,
In the movies.

Willing to Stay Unwashed
He was a good little boy and very thoughtful. He had heard about the great scarcity of water throughout the country. He came to his mother and slipped his hand into hers.
"Mamma," he said, "is it true that in some places the little girls and boys have scarcely enough water to drink?"
"That is what the papers say, my dear."

"Mamma," he presently said, "I'd like to give up something, for those poor little boys and girls."
His mother gave him a fond look.
"Yes, dear. And what would you like to give up?"
"Mamma," he said in his earnest way, "as long as the water is so very scarce I think I ought to give up being washed."

A New Line of Art
The red headed and dissatisfied boarder was a large man with a large appetite. After dinner, he went out into the narrow yard, shook both his fists at the ciliary moon, buried several imprecations toward the congress of the stars, and burst forth into a picturesque and voluminous flood of abuse which was devoted entirely to the landlady.

One of the other boarders, who had been at the house for a long time, thereby accumulating a pallid look and a palate with corns on it, drew near timidly and ventured to ask what the special kick was.
"What's the matter?" echoed the large man. "That old dame's the first woman I ever knew who could literally paint food on a plate."—

Look for the Retort
Mr. Garrison, who is the secretary of war for the whole United States, is a great friend of newspaper men.
On one occasion he was being questioned by the scribes as to the personnel of the government in the Philippines.

"Who'll be the next governor general?" queried a writer.
"How long is a piece of string?" countered Mr. Garrison.
"I don't know," said the inquisitor.
"Neither do I," replied Garrison;
"and that makes it unanimous."—

This Lung Remedy Known Fifteen Years

If everybody who suffers from or is threatened with Lung Trouble would investigate the many cases where recoveries were brought about through the use of Eckman's Alternative, a remedy which has stood the test for nearly fifteen years, a strong opinion in favor of it would be the result.
What it has accomplished for others it may do for you. Read this:

"Gentlemen: Last December I took a sudden cold which developed into Pneumonia. The doctor did all he possibly could for me, but could not clear my lungs. One day I saw a testimonial in one of the papers telling of the good results someone had from taking Eckman's Alternative for a trouble of the lungs. I began taking it and soon felt good results. My lungs began to clear up and I began to gain in strength and was soon well enough to take up my work again. I am in better health now than I have been at any time.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To ne- . lize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. Agent,

The Marshal
By Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews
Author of The Perfect Tribute, etc.
Copyright, The Bobbs-Merrill Company

Prince Louis flung out his hand with a gesture of impulsiveness strange to his controlled manner, yet not out of drawing to those who knew him well. "Ah, Francois," he cried. "Let the titles go for tonight.
Say, 'Louis,' as on that day when we first saw each other; when the four children played together in the old chateau ruins. I have a great desire to hear some one who loves me speak my name, simply as a friend to tried. With all those good fellows!"
—and he tossed a wave of the hand to the door by which the conspirators had left him—"with my officers, it is necessary to keep up formality —I realize it. But you, my inspired peasant, are different. You stand in no class; you would guard my dignity more quickly than I, myself. I can trust it to you. The memory of my mother's voice calling me 'Louis' is in your heart; call me so, then, tonight, my friend, as if we were indeed the brothers we once had to be for five days. And Francois smiled his radiant, exquisite smile and answered quietly. "But yes, my brother—Louis." And went on, "I believe I shall not sleep tonight, Louis. I believe I am too happy to sleep."

As one reads a novel for relaxation in the strain of a critical business affair, Prince Louis caught at the distraction of this side issue.
The next morning was planned to the last detail; there was nothing to do till daylight, yet he could not sleep at present. Here was a romance of some sort. He sank back on the cushions of the couch of Lieutenant. Aladenize's smoking room and put his feet up luxuriously, and slowly lighted a cigar of Havana.

"Tell me," he ordered, and the gentleness of appeal was in the order.

"Sire"—the young man began—and corrected himself. "Louis," he said. The Prince smiled dimly.
"Since our landing I have known that a wonderful thing has happened to me. It is"—he spoke lower—"it is the love of the woman who is to me the only one in the world."

Prince Louis, extended on the couch smoking, a picture of expressionless inattention, missing not an inflection, cast his mind back rapidly many years. There, a vague memory now, he found a picture of a spirited, white-clad, little girl framed in the ruins of the old castle; of a boy, stepping to her side to champion her sudden embarrassment. The heavylidded eyes turned a kindly glance on the erect figure in its new uniform of an officer of the fortieth.

"I congratulate you, mon ami," he said gently. "Is it by any chance the delightful little Mademoiselle Alix of the old chateau?"

Beaure turned scarlet. He was a marvelous man, this Prince Louis.
How had he guessed? "She loves me —I have here a letter in which she tells me that she loves me. Will his Highness read it?" With an impetuous step forward he held the paper toward Louis Napoleon.

"I thank you," the Prince said gravely. He read:

"Francois, what you have wished all your life is true. The good fairies have granted one of your wishes before the battle. That they will give you the other two on the day of the battle is the belief of you."

—ALIXE.

And below was written hurriedly,
"Pietro sends his love."

The Prince gave back the letter with a respectful hand; then looked at Francois inquiringly. "What you have wished all your life, mon ami?" Francois laughed happily.

"One must explain, if it will not tire his Highness." And he told, in a few words, of that day when his self-restraint had given way and how, when his guard was down and he was on the point of telling his lifelong secret love, some spirit of per-versity—but Francois did not know it was an angel—had caught Alixe and she had accused him of wishing always that she might love Pietro.

And how, meshed in that same net of hurt recklessness, he had answered in her own manner—"Yes," he had said, "it was that which had been the wish of my life—that Alixe might love Pietro." And Francois laughed gaily, telling the simple entanglement to the Prince, the night before the battle. "One sees how she is quick and clear-sighted, my Alix," he said. "For she knew well even then it was not that I wished."

He stopped, for in the quiet contained look of the listener an intangible something struck a chill to his delicately-poised sensitiveness.

"What is it, Louis," he cried out.
"You do not think I mistake her—mistake—Alix?"

Prince Louis saw the dawning of consternation. Rapidly he considered. Was it well to take away a man's happiness and courage just before a fight? He remembered some words of Francois spoken three years before, words whose dramatic bareness had struck him. "When a knight of the old time went into battle," the young man had said, "he wore on his helmet the badge of his lady, and the thought of her in his heart. A man fights better so." Very well.
This blind knight should have his letter, with the meaning he had read into it, for his lady's badge, and he should fight tomorrow with the thought of her in his heart. The letter suggested another meaning to sophisticated Louis Bonaparte, but there is no need to hasten the feet of unhappiness. The resonant French voice spoke at last in an unused accent of cordiality and the Prince lied, with ungrudging graciousness.

"Mistaken, my Francois! Not at all. The little billet-doux breathes love for you in each line—there is no question! But, mon ami, you have not finished your story." So Francois explained about the letter left with Lucy Hampton and its premature sending. "That has reached her now—she knows now that I love her, she knows what has really been my lifelong wish—she has hurried this," and his hand crushed his note tenderly—"she has hurried this to me before the fight, that I might know her love also—that I might fight better for you, my Prince—Louis—with that joy in my heart." Prince Louis, his head thrown back, his expressionless eyes watching the rings of smoke which he puffed from his mouth—ring after ring, mounting in dreamlike procession to the low ceiling, considered again. Somewhere in the chain of events of this love-affair his keen practical sense felt a link that did not fit—a link forced into connection. Vaguely he discerned how it was—something had happened to the Virginian letter—there had been a confusion somewhere.

To him the four words of Alixe's postscript were final. "Pietro sends his love." A subconscious reasoning made him certain that Pietro would not have come into such a letter if it had been indeed a love-letter; that the three lines of writing just before the battle could not have held an other man's name, if they had been written to the man whom she loved.
Very dimly, very surely the Prince concluded these things; and then he lowered his cigar, and his gray dull eyes came down from the ceiling and rested, kindly, on the radiant face. "You are right, my friend. It was an exquisite thought of your lady-love to put this other weapon, this bright sword of happiness into your hand, to fight with tomorrow, Mon Dieu, we will reward her by sending her back a Marshal's baton by you; a Marshal's baton tomorrow, Francois! How would it sound, for example, to say 'Madame la Maréchale'?"

The light from Francois' eyes was like a lamp.

"My Prince—Sire—there are three things I have desired all my life, all great things, but of them but one—the baton of a Marshal—is the least. If I might win her love —I have said; if I might help put you in Napoleon's place and shout 'Vive l'Empereur' for you on the throne of France; if I might fulfill the Emperor's prophecy and be not 'a Marshal some day' any longer but a Marshal of your empire—it is asking much of one lifetime, above all for a man born a peasant, is it not?
Yet of those three wishes one wonderful fulfillment has come to me." —he gripped his letter closer—"and one, I believe tomorrow brings. Before tomorrow night—his great eyes were lifted toward the ceiling of the room, and in them was the rapt look of the child of the farmhouse in the Jura, a look of a seer of vision, a look that caught at the Prince's nerves, and made him draw a breath quickly. "Something above myself tells me," Francois said slowly, and the words came with a languid power, as if his personality were a medium, "that before tomorrow night the officers who stand about you shall hail you Emperor over the body of a man who lies before you."

How to Make the Best Cough Remedy at Home

A Family Supply at Small Cost, and Fully Guaranteed.

Make a plain syrup by mixing one pint of granulated sugar and 1/2 pint of warm water and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold almost instantly, and will usually conquer an ordinary cough in 24 hours. It tones up the jaded appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, bronchial asthma, whooping cough and spasmodic croup.

This method of making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) is new used in more homes than any other cough syrup. This explains why it is often imitated, though never successfully. If you try it, use only genuine Pinex, which is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in gualacal and other natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

LAKE CITY DEPOT AGENT IS ROBBED

Milwaukee Night Operator "Stuck Up" by Armed Bandit; $80 Is Taken

Railroad men arriving here this morning report the robbery of the C. M. & St. P. railroad station at Lake City, Minn., about 12 o'clock last night. Eighty dollars was taken.

According to a meager report, a man who had been seen loitering around the station earlier in the evening is thought to be the thief. Following the departure of a late passenger train the operator was disturbed by a slight knocking sound coming from outside the station window.

Going to the window and opening it, he was halted by a gun thrust into his face.

"Throw up your hands," was the order, according to the operator. The bandit climbed into the office through the window and relieved the cash drawer of $80 while he held the operator at bay with the revolver.

"Now don't telegraph up and down the line about this, or you'll get yours," said the man, as he left by the same way he entered.

The operator at once notified the local police by telephone, and wired nearby towns, although no trace of the bandit has been found.

It is thought by railroad men that a freight train pulling out of Lake City in this direction shortly after the holdup may have carried the man.

A man, evidently a tramp, giving his name to the Winona police as William Stinson, narrowly missed death yesterday in the C. M. & St. P. yards at Winona, when he went to sleep with his ear pillowed on the steel rails, according to railroad men arriving here today.

Two men have lost their lives in this manner here within the last thirty days.

Love Deaths In Japan.

Suicide as a cure for hopeless love is a common expedient in Japan. "There are Japanese lovers," says a writer, "who, owing to circumstances, are unable to marry, but they do not blame circumstances. They regard their misfortune as the result of an error in a previous existence, such as breaking their promise to wed or because they were cruel to each other. Such lovers believe that if they bind themselves together with an undergarment and spring into a river or lake they will become united in their next birth. This suicide of Japanese lovers is called 'joshi,' which means 'love death' or 'passion death.'"

Paradoxical.

Break Precedent
Departing from the usual custom of White House weddings, the bride couple entered the East Room to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by the United States Marine band and accompanied by the voices of a group of St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church choir boys. The bridal party formed in the din-

Grenfell, of Labrador, descended the state stairway, and proceeded to his position at the right of the altar.

Just as the clock pointed to 4:30 o'clock, the Marine band which had previously played softly, struck up the wedding march. This was taken up by the choir boys, who awaited the bridal party in the west end of the Red Corridor. Radiant in her shimmering robe of white satin, and leaning on the left arm of the president, the bride took up the triumphal march to the altar—a raised platform near the great window opening on to the East terrace. Following came the attendants, Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, sister of the bride, as maid of honor; Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, another sister; Miss Mary G. White, of Baltimore; Miss Adeline Mitchell Scott, of Princeton, N. J., and Miss Marjorie Brown of Atlanta, Georgia, as bridesmaids. Benjamin B. Burton of New York, Dr. Scovill Clark of Salem, Mass., Dr. Gilbert Horax of Montclair, N. J., and Charles E. Hughes, Jr., of New York, acted as ushers. With perfectly timed tread, the bride and her father ascended the dias where the Rev. Mr. Beach awaited them with the bridegroom and his best man.

city, many kinsmen of the Wilsons and the Sayres, and friends and relatives of both families. Nearly 800 were present at this, the largest wedding in the history of the White House.

Among the distinguished invited were: Vice President and Mrs. Marshall, Secretary of State and Mrs. William Jennings Bryan, Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and his daughter, Miss Norma McAdoo, Secretary of War and Mrs. Garrison, Attorney General McReynolds, Post-

• Where Couple Will Live
• Mr. and Mrs. Sayre have taken for one year the home of Professor William E. McElfresh, 40 Grace Court, Williams-town, Mass. It is a cozy, homey place of ten rooms, two stories high with broad verandas and attractive lawns. It is one of the most charming of the many mansions and cottages in the seat of Williams college, and commands a beautiful view of the Berkshire Hills. It is a typical professor's home, and in keeping with the position of the bridegroom as assistant to President Henry A. Garfield of Williams college.

master General and Mrs. Burleson and daughters, Miss Lucy and Miss Sydney, Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Daniels, Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Lane, Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Houston, Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Redfield, Secretary of Labor and Mrs. Wilson and daughter, Miss Agnes Hart Wilson, the French ambassador and Madame Jusserand, the German ambassador and Countess von Bernstorff, the Turkish ambassador, the Italian ambassador and Marchesa Cusani and their daughter, Donna Beatrice Cusani, the Brazilian ambassador and Madame Da Gama, the Russian ambassador and Madame Dakhmetoff, the Japanese ambassador and the Countess Chinda, the British ambassador and Lady Spring Rice, Chief Justice and Mrs. White, Mr. Justice and Mrs. McKenna, Mr. Justice and Mrs. Oliver Wendell Holmes, Mr. Justice Day, Mr. Justice Lurton and Mrs. Lurton, Mr. Justice Hughes and Mrs. Hughes, Mr. Justice Van Deventer, Mr. Justice Lamar and Mrs. Lamar, Mr. Justice Pitney and Mrs. Pitney, Speaker and Mrs. Clark and daughter, Miss Genevieve Clark, Representative and Mrs. Oscar Underwood, Senator and Mrs. Martine, Representative and Mrs. James R. Mann, John V. A. MacMurray, Miss Maitland Marshall, Miss Kate Durbuse, Miss Ruth Howe, Miss Elizabeth Howry and Miss Dorothy Alshire.

Gifts of royal richness were the portion of Mr. and Mrs. Sayre. From the most beautiful treasures of Europe, from the tropics of the American continents from the choicest jewel houses of the United States came tokens fit for a king and queen. The House of Representatives sent a diamond lavaliere of surpassing beauty—a canary diamond, surrounded by eighty-five smaller white diamonds. Senators added their tribute: resident society vied with each other to honor the White House bride in giving presents.

The rich hangings of gold which adorn the windows of the east room formed a beautiful background for the tall palms, Boston ferns, trailing smilax and clusters of roses and chrysanthemums which formed the decorative scheme.

The raised dais, built in the east window had as a background the gold draperies which were covered with curtains of smilax, studded with white chrysanthemums and roses.

Two huge Dresden vases, the finest specimens of the potter's art in America, presented to the White house by the president of France, stood at either side of the majestic altar, filled with huge bouquets of white chrysanthemums from the United States botanical gardens.

Choice of Attendants
In choosing their attendants, Mr. and Mrs. Sayre selected from their associates in the philharmonic and social service in which each has been engaged.

Miss Mary G. White of Baltimore, one of the bridesmaids, was a classmate of Miss Jessie Wilson at Bowdoin college, Baltimore. Miss Adelaide Mitchell Scott, daughter of Professor William B. Scott of Princeton, has long been a chum of the bride, and Miss Margery Brown, daughter of Colonel E. T. Brown, is a cousin of the bride.

Dr. Grenfell, best man, is medical missionary to the fishermen of Nova Scotia and Labrador, and headed a Labrador expedition a few summers ago of which the bridegroom was a member.

Benjamin B. Burton of New York, an usher, was a classmate and fraternity brother of Sayre at Williams college; Charles E. Hughes, Jr., is the son of Associate Justice Hughes of the supreme court, and was a classmate of Sayre at Harvard law school.

Dr. Gilbert Horax of Montclair, N. J., was a Williams classmate, and Dr. Scovill Clark, Jr., of Salem, Mass., was a member of the Grenfell expedition.

"Early rising" was the order at the White house this morning. The bride and her family, with a few house guests, breakfasted at 9 o'clock and soon afterward a stream of automobiles and carriages bearing relatives of the bride and groom began coming to the gleaming white portico of the executive mansion.

Telephones tinkled continually within the White house. The first "telephone visitor" this morning was said to have been "Cupid on the wire" when the bridegroom called up Miss Wilson from the home of Associate Justice Hughes of the supreme court, where he was to remain until an hour before the ceremony.

Miss Wilson and her sisters were bustling early. The last feminine articles were carefully packed in a couple of trunks and suit cases left to be taken to the train at 6 o'clock. The destination of the bridal couple was still a mystery. All that was given out was that Mr. and Mrs. Sayre would participate in the luncheon after the wedding and leave shortly before 6 p. m.

Dr. Sylvester W. Beach of Princeton, who was to perform the ceremony, paid an early morning call at the White house for a last word of counsel to Miss Wilson. He admitted that the word "obey" will not be used in the ceremony. The marriage service from the book of common worship will be used. The feature of this is the question which will be asked Miss Wilson, as follows:

"Jessie, wilt thou have this man to be thy husband, and wilt thou pledge thy truth to him, in all love and honor, in all duty and service, in all faith and tenderness, to live with and cherish him, according to the holy ordinance of God, in the holy bond of marriage?"

Merry Luncheon Party
A merry party gathered for luncheon today at the White house. A section of the Marine band, the "President's Own," played for the family party, comprising members of both the Wilson and Sayre families. The bridesmaids and ushers were also guests.

Music for the ceremony this afternoon was selected by Miss Margaret Wilson, to be played by the Marine band. Both the Lohengrin and Mendelssohn wedding marches will be rendered.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

Federal Probe of Charges Against Ladow, Superintendent, Is Begun Today

LEAVENWORTH, Nov. 25.—As the result of charges recently preferred by W. H. Mackey, former deputy warden of the United States prison here, against R. V. Ladow, superintendent of federal prisons and chairman of the federal board of parole, C. H. McGlassen, special agent of the department of justice today began an investigation which is expected to be the most exhaustive the big prison has ever experienced. Alva Cole, Ladow's appointee as superintendent of construction, was requested to resign by tonight.

Mackey charged Ladow with extravagance and lack of business ability. He declared that the reason for not completing the prison can be attributed to Ladow. Mackey avers that the superintendent of construction received $750 a year more than any other similar official and at Ladow's instigation.

Your Kidneys Are to Blame

Thousands of men and women are unwell as the result of the kidneys failing to filter the blood properly. The dangerous feature of kidney disease consists in its subtle and delusive character, and so insidious are its ravages that many victims do not suspect its existence until the advanced stages have been reached. This is not strange when we consider that the complicated and delicate structure of the kidneys is poorly supplied with sensitive nerves. As the function of the kidneys is to remove impurities, they are very susceptible to disease, and any disorder affecting them is dangerous, as it causes impure matter to be retained in the blood and affects the whole system. By restoring the kidneys and liver to health and activity, Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy enables these organs to properly perform their functions and free the blood from urinary and biliary poisons. The experience of thirty-six years has demonstrated the fact that it acts specifically upon the kidneys and liver in such a manner that it establishes a healthy condition of these vital organs, and it has therefore become a standard remedy for kidney and liver diseases. It is sold by all druggists, or we will send you a free sample if you address Warner's Safe Remedies Co., Dept. 422 Rochester, N. Y.

TRAMP'S DISASTROUS TRIP ENDS BEHIND BARS TOO FOND OF SWEETS

The sweet tooth of John Eglehoff, who claims he hails from Milwaukee, landed him in the hands of the police. It may land him in a federal prison if the authorities decide to prosecute him for violation of the newly amended interstate commerce law.

John was first discovered on a way freight between Milwaukee and La Crosse. He was "booted" off. At the next stop he was found, snuggled in a dark corner of a box car of the same train. Again he bid an unceremonious adieu to the train—this time for good because Mr. Brakeman watched to see that he stayed off.

The next train was passenger No. 5, and when it pulled into Tomah Eglehoff boarded her only to be again introduced to the healthy pedal extremity of a husky brakeman.

Determined to "beat the road or bust" he landed in another freight. He didn't pick an "empty," but clambered into a car filled with sweet meats being shipped from a Milwaukee candy factory to a point in Minnesota.

When discovered he was on the floor of the car, a pail of candy between his legs and munching such of the contents as appealed to his taste.

Under the recent amendment to the interstate commerce law he may be prosecuted in federal court for stealing goods in transit.

JAIL FOR NEXT WOMAN SMUGGLER FIND MURDERED MILWAUKEE MAN

Hunt of the federal district court, today. Mrs. Helen W. Peloussee, society leader and wife of Louis H. Peloussee, head of an electrical engineering company, pleaded guilty on a smuggling charge and was fined $1,000 by Judge Hunt today.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 25.—His throat cut from ear to ear, and a deep knife wound in his back, and a dozen minor stab wounds in other portions of his body, an unidentified murder victim was found by the police lying in a clump of shrubbery on Whitefish Bay road early today. Identification is being attempted by means of papers found in the dead man's pockets.

The victim was evidently about 50 years old, fairly well dressed and had evidently been dead but a few hours.

Signs of a struggle were all about the place.

BRANDEIS NOT FOR JOB

POLICE ARREST COAL STEALERS

Four Men and One Woman Alleged by Officers to Have Carted Off Railroad Fuel

The weather man's prediction that La Crosse is in line for cold weather has sent many of the city's less prosperous citizens scurrying to the yards of the Burlington and Milwaukee railroads for their winter's supply of coal.

Ed Boyne and a woman, claim the police, drove to the Burlington yards at Grand Crossing with a horse and wagon and were carting away the bituminous product by the wagon load when the officers "swooped" down upon them.

Someone had pulled the "pocket" on a coal car permitting several tons to run out along the tracks. "Q" employees had shoveled it to one side and the woman and Boyne, it is alleged, were making away with it.

Jack Craigen and Jack Miller were also arrested for coal stealing at the Burlington.

"The early bird catches the worm," quoth August Berg and he put the old adage into practice by hurrying to the yards of the Milwaukee at 3 a. m. this morning. He was busy carrying off fuel when apprehended, it is alleged.

The men were taken into court this morning but owing to the absence of the district attorney their cases were not heard. They will be tried later.

Born in Frixheim, Prussia in 1852, Mr. Reusgen emigrated to this country in 1873, settling in Norwalk, Wis. He remained there for ten years, coming to this city in 1883. Shortly after that time he was united in marriage to Miss Anna Duenwald. He worked here as a stone mason, and was an active member of the Concordia society.

Surviving him are his wife and two sons. The sons are Jacob and Jos. Reusgen.

MONEY TRUST TRIO HAS CONTROL OVER $22,000,000,000 gether hold in all 341 directorships in 112 corporations having aggregate resources and capitalization of $22,245,000,000.

"Twenty-two billion dollars is more than three times the assessed value of all the property, real and personal, in all New England.

"But the huge sum of twenty-two billion dollars is not large enough to include all the corporations to which the 'influence' of the three allies extend."

"For instance," continues Brandeis, "the capitalization of the New Haven system is given as $385,000,000. That sum represents the bond and stock capital of the New Haven railroad. But the New Haven system comprises many controlled corporations whose capitalization is only to a slight extent included directly or indirectly in the New Haven railroad balance sheet."

How Domination Spread

Brandeis goes on to tell how the triple alliance came to dominate the other big banking centers. He says: "The three allies dominated Philadelphia, for the firm of Drexel & Company is J. P. Morgan & Company under another name. In Boston there are two large international banking houses, Lee Higginson & Company and Kidder, Peabody & Company. They control aggregate resources of $288,386,294, about half the banking resources of the city. Both are devoted co-operators with the Morgan associates in larger and interstate transactions.

"Similar relations exist between the triple alliance and Chicago's great financial institutions; its First National, the Illinois Trust & Savings bank, and the Continental and Commercial National bank, controlling resources of $561,000,000."

Tracing the control of these big financial centers down through the smaller groups, Brandeis enumerates the resultant evils as follows:

"First, these banker barons levy a heavy toll upon the whole community, upon owners of money for leave to invest it, upon railroads, upon public service companies, and through these corporations upon consumers.

"Second and more serious, is the effect of the money trust in directly suppressing competition.

Suppresses Manhood

"Third, but far more serious even than the suppression of competition, is the suppression of industrial liberty, indeed of manhood itself, which this over-weening financial power entails.

"Here and there you will find a hero, red blooded and courageous, who dared to fight and who won. Here and there you will find the martyr, who resisted in silence and suffered in resignation. But America, which seeks 'the greatest good to the greatest number' cannot be content with conditions that fit only the hero, the martyr and the slave."

The lawyers did not know until afterward that they kept the president of the United States waiting in the cold for more than an hour.

REBELS VICTORS IN A BIG BATTLE WITH HUERTISTAS

ordered a renewal of the battle at daylight today, after a lull of several hours, the reserves he had rushed to Zaragoza to aid in the attack on Salazar opened fire. At that time Salazar's position was desperate in the extreme. His two thousand men were almost completely surrounded, with his ammunition running low and his troops almost exhausted.

At 7:30 o'clock, federal reinforcements appeared at Zaragoza from the south, number 1,500, and bringing four big guns. They were immediately trained upon the rebels, giving Salazar a chance to reorganize his forces and arrange an orderly retreat, covered by artillery.

The battle line yesterday extended along a front of twenty miles and many points where the fighting was desperate have been unable to report their casualties. The greatest number of men that has engaged in a battle on Mexican soil since 1848 participated when the engagement began. Villa's forces number 7,500 and it is estimated the federals have 9,500. The battle line extended from Bauche, on the west, in a semi-circle to Zaragoza, near the Rio Grande, on the east, with the center at Tierra Blanca, in the Mexican Central railroad.

Federals Open Ball.

The engagement opened near Tierra Blanca when federals fired on Villa's main body as it approached there. Then followed a lull, the federals retreating to await reinforcements. At 5 o'clock both sides opened with artillery at Tierra Blanca and an hour later Villa's troops attacked. In fifteen minutes the fighting was in progress along the whole line.

From the outset the fighting was desperate according to the stories of wounded federals and rebels brought into Juarez during the night. In some places the troops were so close that they fought with clubbed rifles, hand to hand. During the early stages Villa merely defended his position but towards midnight he ordered his forces to assume the aggressive.

Shortly after midnight came word that General Quez Salazar, with 2,000 federals, had attempted to turn the rebel left flank at Zaragoza and had been hemmed in. At last reports the fighting there was proceeding, with Salazar still uncaptured. Villa sent word to General Rosalio Hernandez to capture Salazar alive if possible, so that he might be taken to Juarez and publicly executed "as a warning to all traitors." At the same time he hurried all his reserves to Zaragoza to aid in annihilating Salazar's division and the capture of Salazar himself.

200 Federal Prisoners.

Early today a train reached Juarez bearing thirty-eight wounded federals and 200 federal prisoners. Another train arriving earlier had brought a large number of dead and wounded rebels.

The wounded said Villa had captured two trains on which the federals advanced to Samalayuca. At midnight, when Villa began to force the federal center back, his cavalry charged the enemy.

A federal train, loaded with infantry, attempted to back away with the rebel cavalry approaching, but was stopped by a derailment and Villa surrounded it. The federals retreated and offered a determined resistance entrenched behind their cars and in ditches along the track. At last reports they had not been dislodged. General Benavides, rebel commander at this point, was waiting until an artillery car could arrive when he expected to shell out the federals and cut them to pieces.

Lind to Tampico

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The Tampico district of Mexico held the attention of the administration today. So material was an accurate report on exact conditions there that both John Lind and Rear Admiral Fletcher were assigned to investigate. Lind's report will be transmitted by wireless.

His decision will determine whether American marines and blue jackets are to be landed to do police duty for the big British oil interests. Secretary of State Bryan has told the British embassy here that British interests will have the same protection accorded to Americans.

When one of the cabinet officers remarked upon this fact, the president smiled and remarked: "Well, I'm an important figure in this ceremony."

CLINGS TO HOPE WOMEN WILL AID HER TO ESCAPE

morning when she was arrested charged with the murder of her husband, her one thought has been for the welfare of her two children and the old mother to whom the care of the little ones has brought additional worry.

This deep maternal longing was gratified yesterday when the little family group and myself motored from the little home on Lake Quasapaugh, over thirty-seven miles, to the Connecticut state prison at Wethersfield. From the day when the law reached out and grasped this terrified young woman, she has never looked upon the faces of her children, or her father or any of her family, excepting her mother. Poverty, that gaunt specter that has stalked beside Bessie Wakefield since she first opened her eyes, has kept her father, mother and children from her, although in these uncomplaining, unemotional people of the farm, the elemental instincts beat insistently.

"I know now that I never had a chance," said Bessie Wakefield yesterday, in the first interview granted anyone since her conviction. The mingled joy and grief of seeing her own flesh and blood had left her more keenly interested in the future.

"It wasn't until the women of the state began to try and save me that I realized what my life had been. My one hope now is that they will interest the board of pardons."

Tells Story to Mother

"You know I am innocent," she cried, holding on to her mother's hand. And to the mother, who like herself, has been a product of poverty and ignorance, she told again the story of the man she thought might save her from the unbearable sufferings of her married life.

"Plew tried to save himself at my expense. That's why I'm here. He planned everything. I never knew until it was all over. I had never been in a court room before. I was so afraid. I've been afraid for seven years, first of Will (her husband), then of Jim (Plew), then of everybody."

SENATOR HITCHCOCK EXPLAINS HIS PLAN OF CURRENCY LEGISLATION TO THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Views of the Hitchcock-republican faction of the senate banking committee on currency legislation were presented to the senate today by Senator Hitchcock.

"The president has merited and receives the praise of the whole country in bringing the matter before congress and making currency reform an administrative measure," he said. "His wisdom and courage in bringing this needed reform to a practical issue is to be highly commended. Nothing less than presidential influence would have made the reform possible for some time. I yield this tribute to the president the more readily because I have frankly opposed and criticised him when he urged hasty action which I deemed dangerous."

LAST RITES FOR LOTHARD ENGAAS

Services for Lothard Engaas, who was accidentally shot by his brother, August, while gunning for rabbits near Holmen on Sunday, were held from his home at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The accident happened when August Engaas hurled a stick into a brush heap to scare a rabbit which had run to shelter. Slung in his arm was an automatic shot gun. In some way, the brother says, the trigger became tangled in his clothing and was discharged. The load of shot entered the body of Lothard Engaas, killing him instantly.

The boys are nephews of E. Engaas, 1202 West Avenue South.

U. C. T. LAY PLANS FOR BIG DINNER

Reservations are being made for a dinner to be given at 6:30 on the evening of November 29, at the Elk's hall under the auspices of the United Commercial Travelers. Several addresses are to be made. A gold U. C. T. emblem will be given to the lady giving the best toast to the traveling salesmen.

Members of the La Crosse bar will hold a meeting a week from Tuesday, at which time many questions of importance to the legal fraternity will be taken up. It is probable that the meeting will be held in connection with a dinner at a place to be named later.

QUAINT "OLD-TIMEY" PRINTS ARE REVIVED

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Quite as we might have expected, there is on foot a revival of prints. The quaintness of panner styles, of founcces, and ruffles, simply demand for expression these delightful "old-timey" textures. Here and there has cropped up in Fall importations a gown made of printed silk or muslin hinting broadly of styles which will not really arrive until Spring. Manufacturers, quick to grasp the possibilities of this obvious trend of fashions, have prepared to meet the coming demand materials of rare charm. Printed crepes, crepones, charmeuse, foulards, chiffons, marquissettes, printed poplins, linens and muslins,

A Figured Poplin Gown Typifying the Revival of Prints

are among the lovely materials with which merchants will pile high their shelves once the heavy serges and satins, fur-cloths and plushes of the Winter have been disposed of. Even now at your favorite store you may find one or two examples of printed crepe or crepon forecasting the fashions to come. If you are choosing the material for a dancing frock or afternoon gown, either of these will be a wise selection, as it can be absolutely depended upon to remain in fashion during the Spring and Summer.

The new prints, while resembling to a marked degree the textiles of "mother's" and "grandmother's" time, do not duplicate them. Old-time prints, if you will recall, were more or less connected in design. The little blossoms were brought together by an abundance of foliage or by the intricacies of tracery. Quite on the contrary, the new prints show prim little nosegays or lone little blossoms scattered far apart on a plain ground. The foliage is in every instance reduced to lowest terms; some of the flowers being without foliage of any kind, others showing one small leaf precisely placed on one side or the other of the short stem. The colors of the flowers are vivid, and the general impression created quite in accord with the decorative idea now so pronounced in dress.

Our first illustration shows an afternoon gown made of printed poplin, really a Spring fabric, but one which an enterprising merchant recently placed on sale with a view to stimulating business. The ground is white, and on it are scattered, in series of two, highly conventionalized daisies, dark blue and rose colored, with short black stems having a little black dash on each side to simulate leaves. The fabric was almost ridiculously small in price, fifteen cents a yard, yet remarkably smart and effective. The blouse has the fashionable drop shoulder and long sleeves finished with a short vertical band at the hand. The vest is of lace, the deep neck frill of chiffon, and the simple drapery of the skirt is characterized by the unassuming waist of the fabric. About the blue amply drawn a girdle of Another silk.

interest in which marked tissue can called fabric, is tulle. This is used, principally in black, for a trimmings, for tunics and flounce, and for wide girdles ending in a flaring bow directly at the waist. A model lately imported showed a huge, indefinitely-arranged fluff of tulle just below the waistline in the back, simulating the bustle and prefiguring a new silhouette which mayhaves with us in another season. Tulle is also used for theater caps, for millinery and evening headaddresses.

The feature of greatest interest in stripe of the agarie which fashions the blouse. It is called the "candy stripe" and is not unlike the stripe which wound around the candy stick of our childhood days. The material comprised stripes of blue, white, brown, rose, lavender and green, irregular in width, and arranged in various color successions. Trimmed with black fur, and worn with a plain green velvet skirt, the effect was unusual and charming. The model represents a simple Russian blouse, worn with a two-piece skirt—a style which, for all its smartness, may be safely essayed by even an amateur dressmaker.

The skirt, you will note, is somewhat short. Shorter skirts, have, by the way, become an established style. Fashionable women are having their garments made to clear the ground by full three or four inches, and sometimes considerably more. This affords an excellent opportunity for the display of the fancy footwear of which many attractive types are shown. Boots made to order, with cloths tops matching the fabric of the skirt, are the most recent of high novelties.

As early as last August we heard rumors of the possible revival of capes. At the French races gaily-lined capes were introduced as a trimming motif with some of the most attractive gowns, but it is not until this moment that the cape has actually crossed the seas. Last week we noted a very handsomely-gowned woman who had completed her toilette of rough black silk crepon with a short black velvet cape. It assumed the low neck-line of the gown, and was finished absolutely flat. Coming just below the elbow, it sounded a very new and distinctly chic note. This is another style which will probably await Spring for fruition, since the cape as it is now presented is not a practical garment for cold weather wear.

The fantastic tendency so pronounced in woman's apparel is gradually extending to children's wear, and little boys, strange to say, seem to be the greatest sufferers at present. The extremes to which manufacturers—most of them foreign, we are glad to record—have proceeded are evidenced in garments recently displayed by the exclusive shops. Little waistcoat suits were shown with short, tight trousers and semi-fitted coats closing in sharp backward-sloping lines over real and truly waistcoats made of plain or fancy pique. Seamen suits, also with old-fashioned tight trousers, were fully rigged with rows and rows of brass buttons. The height of absurdity was probably reached, however, in zouave suits of white bengaline. These had close trousers ending in narrow black satin bands, which finished at the outside of the knee in fairly large black satin rosettes. Over the soft, beruffled, white silk blouse was worn the regulation zouave jacket of white

TSCHARNER READY FOR HOLIDAY RUSH

Many Extra Men to Be Put On Here to Distribute Christmas Gifts and Packages

EARLY MAILING IS ALSO URGED

Points Out that Starting Them on Their Way Now Insures Delivery; Use Parcel Post

That parcel post packages may be assured safe and expeditious delivery during the Christmas holidays, Postmaster W. B. Tschanner has ordered the distribution of 5,000 cards to all sections of the city, which bear this inscription:

"Christmas parcels should be mailed early. Wrap all packages securely, and address plainly. Parcels may be marked 'Not to be opened until Christmas,' or with some other similar directions."

Mr. Tschanner said on Monday that every possible effort will be made to have the postoffice cleared of all Christmas matter on Christmas morning. The department will have many extra clerks and extra carriers to handle efficiently the gifts of Santa Claus to his many friends in La Crosse.

"This will be the first Christmas," said the postmaster, "that we have had the parcel post system, and the officials have not as yet made any provision for the solution of this perplexing problem. By the rules of the department we can not engage more than the number of extra clerks that we generally have during the rush season at Christmas and New Year's. We will handle the situation as well as we can."

Postmaster Tschanner said that when the parcel post system was organized, the government officials, when making an appropriation for stamps and other necessities to be used for this particular work, estimated that there could not be more than 300,000,000 packages come through the various departments within the first six months. "This number of packages has been just doubled," said Mr. Tschanner, "over 600,000,000 parcels having gone through the various postoffices of the country from January, when the system was put into operation, until July of this year."

TO FORGET TALE OF FIELD KILLING

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 25.—There will be no investigation here of the assertion of Mrs. Vera Scott that she shot Marshall Field, Jr., in a Chicago resort several years ago. Because the Chicago police ignored her story, the local authorities announced today that they would drop the inquiry. They will prosecute her, however, on charge of vagrancy.

KILLS SELF FOR SPOUSE

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 25.—Mrs. Adolph Otto, a 17 year old bride, killed herself by drinking carbolic acid in order that her husband might obtain $3,000 his mother had promised him if he would not marry her, according to a note she left, which is in the hands of Coroner Bopp.

WOMEN AT POLLS

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—County Judge Owen announced to a delegation of women this afternoon that women judges and clerks will be assigned to every one of the 1,400 voting precincts in Chicago at the spring elections. He will appoint 700 women judges and 700 clerks.

bengaline braided in black. The only saving feature of these suits was that they were too expensive ever to become popular. Less expensive was a straight hanging, black velvet dress for a very small boy, which was girdled just under the arms with a wide black silk sash ending in a big bow at the left side-front. The Oliver Twist is a quaint suit, seemingly, however, somewhat inappropriately named, as poor Oliver never boasted apparel so luxurious. It has short, close trousers buttoning with large buttons very high upon a waist cut blouse fashion, but without any fullness. Usually both trousers and waist are velvet or corduroy, and a sash is sometimes

TO GROW HAIR ON A BALD HEAD

BY A SPECIALIST

Thousands of people suffer from baldness and falling hair who, having tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless; the following home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and is also unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color, stopping hair from falling out, and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist: Bay Rum 6 ounces; Lavona de Composee, 2 ounces; Menthol Crystals, one-half drachm. If you wish it perfumed, add 1 drachm of your favorite perfume. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists, and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics.

WOMAN PREVENTS DANGEROUS WRECK

Mrs. George Weir of McGregor Finds Huge Rock on Track and Flags Train

M'GREGOR, Iowa, Nov. 25.—That a C. M. & St. P. passenger train was not hurled over the bank into the Mississippi river just below McGregor with probably great loss of life, was due to Mrs. George Weir, who with her husband and two little boys, lives near the railroad two miles south of McGregor.

Mrs. Weir was walking up the track toward town with her two children about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, shortly before the passenger train from the south was due. As she turned one of the many sharp bends that are so frequent on the River division, she saw a rock weighing 500 to 600 pounds lying on the track. It had rolled from the hillside, torn through the board fence which separates the track from the driveway and was lodged between the rails. Knowing that the engineer of the approaching train could not see the danger until he was almost upon it,

Mrs. Weir, putting her boys in a safe place, caught up one of her red caps and ran down the track toward the train waving it. The engineer saw her, put on the brakes and brought the train to a standstill with the engine within a foot of the boulder.

Quercus Welsh Superstitions. Some of the old Welsh death and funeral customs are curious, as, for instance, the opening of the windows when a person was dying. Many years ago when a gentleman at Devil's Bridge, Cardiganshire, was passing away all the boxes, drawers, etc., in the house were unlocked, as it was thought that anything fastened would hinder the flight of the spirit. This superstition is also known in Devon and Cornwall, and in Gloucestershire the door is opened at death.—Cardiff Western Mail.

No Room For Samples. The way of the drummer is not very easy in India. He is expected to carry around his own bedding for use on trains, soap, towels, food, and often a supply of water.—San Francisco Chronicle.

"I'm so hard up," an Atchison man said today, "that I have to pull my gold teeth."

tion here that the judge may not return to the bench until after the holidays and that the interval will be spent in an attempted recuperation of his health.

BARS DIRTY PEOPLE

HOOSIER STATE HEALTH COMMISSIONER SAYS TOWNS WILL BE DIRTY UNTIL CHILDREN ARE TRAINED

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 25.—"Dirty people and dirty towns," is a subject handled without gloves by Dr. J. N. Hurty, state health commissioner, in an article prepared for the United Press.

"The reason we have so many dirty towns is because there are so many dirty people," said Dr. Hurty. "Shall the dirty people be compelled by law to be clean? No, indeed, not unless their dirtiness threatens the health and comfort of others. The Scripture says: 'He who is filthy let him be filthy still.' Of course, what is the use to do otherwise? Compelling him who is filthy to be clean in person and premises will not make him clean in mind and soul. He'll be filthy still. We must teach cleanliness to the unclean. Then if they become clean and stay clean, it is because cleanliness is their nature."

"The town is a mirror. It reflects the people. A man who is clean in mind will be clean in person. He will have a clean front yard and a clean back yard. A littered dooryard and dilapidated house reflects a littered and dilapidated mind.

"The reason we cannot make a silk purse out of a sow's ear is because it is a sow's ear. It is not silk. A naturally dirty man cannot be made a clean man. Dirty towns will exist as long as the dirty people exist. We must start our future citizens right by giving more time to instructing young school children in the results of the crime of dirt."

A few days ago a neighbor of Ole Tolodden (who has for years resided a few miles south of this city) stopped at the latter's home to ask if he wished to ride to town with him and not seeing the man anywhere around, looked in the window. He was confronted by the sight of an overturned table and near it, upon the floor, the prostrate body of his neighbor. Calling another man the two forced an entrance to the house and found that Mr. Tolodden was dead and the coroner being summoned, it was decided that heart disease was the cause of his death. The unfortunate man was a deaf mute who resided alone and had no relatives near here, as far as can be learned.

USES HONOR SYSTEM

WARDEN OF OHIO PEN HAS BASEBALL FOR CONVICTS AND LETS MEN OUT ON THEIR HONOR

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 25.—Prison reform has been advocated by Warden Thomas of the Ohio penitentiary over since he took office and more deeds than words have marked his advocacy of a question which is being agitated today.

Thomas was perhaps the first prison warden to give his charges real outdoor exercise of the kind that made them forget that they were practically nothing more than caged creatures. He organized the "Penitentiary Baseball league" and every week, all summer long, one game was staged in the prison yards, and all inmates "in good standing" were permitted to be just fans.

The burglar convicts yelled themselves hoarse for "The Burglar Nine," while the expert penmen who signed other names than their own to checks cheered to their hearts content when one of the "Forgers" lifted the ball over the forty foot prison wall. But chief of the reforms advocated by Thomas has been the "honor system." He has put this into practice and today stated that he believed his statistics proved the system successful. "Out of 275 'trusties,' many of them real 'bad men,' burglars, cut-throats and murderers," said the warden, "placed outside the prison walls since April 1 on their honor only 18 have walked away."

A Natural Cake of Soap.

An odd and useful plant of our Pacific coast is the soaproot. The grass-like, crinkled leaves appear close to the ground in the spring and are known to every California country dweller. They grow from a deep rooted bulb incased in coarse fiber. If the fiber is stripped off and the onion-like bulb crushed between the hands is rubbed in water as one uses a cake of soap a plentiful lather results, as cleansing as any soap bought in a store.—St. Nicholas.

Good Cheer Aids Digestion of Food

Dyspeptics Can Make the Rest of the Family Happy by Using a Laxative- tonic

The temper of the family and the good cheer around the table depend so much on the good digestion of each individual present that the experiences of some former dyspeptics who overcame their trouble should be of interest to those now suffering in this way.

The best advice one can give—but it is advice that is seldom heeded—is to eat slowly and masticate each mouthful carefully. However, if slow eating and careful mastication fail the next aid is one close to nature, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This remedy is an excellent digestant, and in addition to helping in the digestion of the food, acts gently on the liver and bowels, ridding them of the accumulation of waste that should long ago have been passed off. It is safe, reliable, pleasant-tasting, and results are guaranteed.

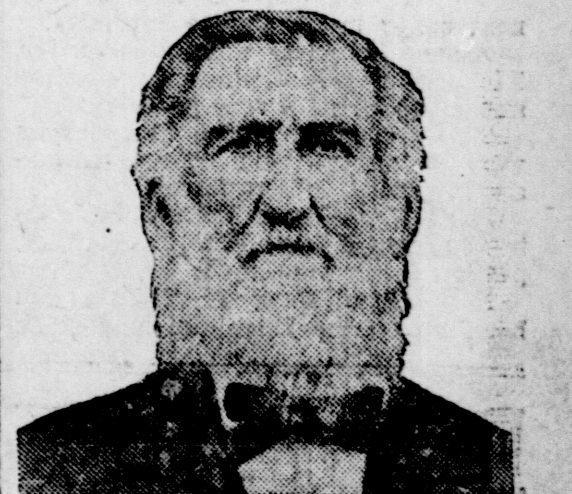

MAJ. S. MARTIN, of Joplin, Mo., now 77, thinks Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has helped him to a longer and happier life. He has not felt so good in years as he has since taking this excellent medicine, and in spite of his 77 years he says he feels like a boy.

It is the ideal remedy for indigestion, no matter how severe; constipation, no matter how chronic, biliousness, headaches, gas on the stomach, drowsiness after eating and similar annoyances.

You can obtain Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar, the latter size being bought by heads of families already familiar with its merits. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

When you use Syrup Pepsin you will see the fallacy of chewing mints and tablets or of taking cathartics, salts, pills and similar drastic medicines. Unlike these, Syrup Pepsin does not lose its good effect, and by automatically training the stomach and bowel muscles to do their work, soon restores these organs to normal.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 479 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

Schoolboy Songs in Mountains. There is a widespread practice in the schools of Switzerland for parties of boys to go out in charge of a master and learn geography and geology by actual object lessons. When such parties come upon a scene especially wild and romantic it is their custom to sing appropriate part songs. In former times it was the fashion for a suitor to go down on his knees to a lady when he asked her to become his wife, but the way in which Daniel Webster proposed to Miss Fletcher was more modern and poetic. Like many another lover, he once holding a skein of yarn which the lady had been unraveling. "Gracie," said he, "we have been untangling knots; let us see if we cannot tie the one which will see us in a lifetime." With a piece of tape he fastened the half of a true lover's knot and Miss Fletcher completed it.

VICE PRESIDENT IN CHINA REVOLT

A Queer Trade. Mr. Chesterton once wrote a book called "The Club of Queer Trades." One of the queerest trades in real life is that of the elderly South London man who stands daily at a very congested crossroad and assists children over the thoroughfare. Some sixteen years ago he started this occupation out of sheer benevolence and has been doing it ever since. The small sums and the Christmas gifts he receives from the parents of the children serve to eke out his pension.—London Globe.

Healthy, Wrinkle-Free Skin Easy to Have

(From the Woman Beautiful.) A dull, drab, muddy complexion, or an over-red, blotchy, pimply or freckled skin, can by a quite simple, harmless and inexpensive method, be changed into one of flower-like radiance and purity. One ounce of common mercolized wax, sold by druggists generally, will remove the most unsightly complexion in from one to two weeks. By its remarkable absorptive power, the withered, faded or discolored layer of thin film-skin which hides the healthier skin underneath, is gradually flaked off in tiny, almost invisible particles. This is done so gently there is no inconvenience, and no trace is left on the skin except that of enhanced beauty. The wax is smeared on like cold cream before retiring, and removed in the morning with warm water.

If the skin be wrinkled or saggy, a face bath made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered salolite in ½ pt. witch hazel will be found most effective. Combining both astringent and tonic properties, this tightens the skin and braces up supporting muscles.—Advertisement.

GIRLS! GIRLS! YOU MUST TRY THIS! DOUBLES BEAUTY OF YOUR HAIR

For 25 cents you can make your hair lustrous, fluffy, and abundant.

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—That's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely set a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

That fluid is the famous D. D. D. prescription for eczema.

THE SUPERVISING NURSE of one of our prominent Catholic institutions (name of nurse and institution on application), writes regarding a patient: "The disease had eaten her eyebrows away. Her nose and lips had become disfigured. Since the use of D. D. D. her eyebrows are growing, her nose and face have assumed their natural expression."

How many eczema sufferers are paying their doctors for regular treatment and are being treated with this soothing, healing fluid?

DR. GEO. T. RICHARDSON frankly

D. D. D. Prescription—for 15 years—the standard skin remedy writes "D. D. D. is superior to anything I have ever found. Soft and soothing, yet a powerful agent."

To do the work, D. D. D. Prescription must be applied according to directions given in the pamphlet around every bottle. Follow these directions—and see!

And it certainly takes away the itch at once—the moment the liquid is applied. The skin is soothed—calmed—so thoroughly refreshed—delightfully cooled.

All druggists of standing have the famous specific as well as the efficient D. D. D. Skin Soap.

But we are so confident of the merits of this prescription that we will refund the purchase price of the first full size bottle if it fails to reach your case. You alone are to judge.

Chicago Grain Review
CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Bullish news from Argentina gave wheat a good start today, futures being 3/4 to 1/2 c higher at the outset and showing further advance of 1/4 to 1/2 c during the forenoon. The bull movement was inspired by reports from Argentina that early showings from the northern harvests were unfavorable. The corn market was helped by firmer Argentine offers at Liverpool and the action of wheat. At the close of the forenoon, futures were 1/2 c above the closing figures last night.
Oats started 1/4 c to 1/2 c higher because of the advance in the other grain pits and added another fraction of gain during the forenoon.
Provisions were a trifle easier at the opening because of easier hog prices, but firmed toward noon.
Wheat and corn futures continued to advance until the close, registering after noon gains of 1/4 to 3/4 c and oats futures held firm.
Provisions were firm throughout

Put More Weight in Back-field in Preparation for Clash of Two Services

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 25.—Navy coaches plan to use a rushing attack with a heavy back field in the Army game Saturday. That was made certain today when the coaches announced that Failing will replace Leonard at right halfback because of his greater weight.

Herman Olcott, the old Yale guard, guard, and Lieutenant H. C. Mustin, a former Navy star, joined the coaches today and gave their help in whipping the team into shape. Scrimmage work is about over, as coaches believe the men are on edge and more work may do more harm than good.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The Giant fans would not recognize the Polo grounds today. All semblance of a baseball diamond has been removed. Instead a gridiron looms up on the field that was the battlefield of a world's series struggle just a month ago. One of the goal posts is at home plate, the other in center field. Ten thousand temporary seats have been added for the Army-Navy game Saturday.

Two seats today sold for $50. The average price was $20 for regular $3 seats.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 25.—The Army eleven was scheduled for the last hard workout of the week today in preparation for the Navy game Saturday at New York. The regulars were to be sent against the scrubs, the latter using Navy formations. Benedict, Huston and Hodgson were out for practice yesterday and probably will be able to start Saturday. Meacham is still uncertain, but with the other three cripples back prospects are much brighter.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Nov. 25.—What Jack Reid, Toledo heavyweight, said in the second round of his encounter here with Jess Willard last night, worried ring followers today more than the outcome of the match. Rising from the canvas after a steady battering from the big Kansan, Reid addressed brief words to the referee and climbed into his bathrobe. Ringsiders say he groaned: "S'nuuff—I'm gonna quit." Reid declared today he said: "Lemme at him."
